The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Woodford's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, the portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. Remarks:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks: On detached service detailed as a battery of Arkansas Post (over)

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. * This company subsequently became Company I, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks: Trans Mississippi Department

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been musered separately. About April 8, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company was fomely Captain Wm. G. Webb's Company Texas Cavalry. It was assigned to the 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry about December 22, 1864, and transferred to Waller's Regiment Texas Cavalry about March 28, 1865.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greaney's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Detailed Regtl Hd Qrs as clerk

Absent enlisted men accounted for:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. Remarks: Promoted to 2nd Lt March 1864.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 28th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. Remarks:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 21 (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 8, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greabury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company K, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 5th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 17th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th (Granbury's) Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 6th (Consolidated) Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appear to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 35th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Beauchamp's Company was enrolled was Company H under date of the muster of June 30, 1863. Many statements of the enrollment are found to have had prior service in the 5th, Dougherty's Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C 2d (Silvey's) Battalion Texas Volunteers of Infantry. A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar elements of the 5th, 6th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 5th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 1, 1864, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Louisiana - Terry Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River operating in the Trans-Miss. Dept. Texas Cavalry (consolidated) and others in the 5th Consolidated Regiment Texas Mounted Cavalry.

* This company subsequently became Company G, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 26th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company C, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 28, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 17th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 25th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 25th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment (Carter's) Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies, Captain Pinckney Lane's company being mustered into the service of the Confederate States at Camp Bee, near San Antonio, June 15, 1861, as Company C, 2d Regiment Texas Mounted Volunteers. Some time after the muster of June 15 the regiment was ordered to Texas Infantry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Galveston on January 1, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Richmond, La., April 3, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Richmond, La., April 3, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months).

This organization was broken up in March, 1863, and its parts were consolidated with the 5th and 6th Regiments Texas Cavalry, where they served to the end of the war. A part of the regiment was captured at Galveston on January 1, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Richmond, La., April 3, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months).

Remnants of the 25th and 35th Regiments were consolidated with the 5th and 6th Regiments Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Galveston on January 1, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, when it was exchanged and consolidated with the 5th Texas Cavalry (6 months). The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Pro Hoffer's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Sir:-

Since enclosed my resignation of the office of Commissary, I respectfully ask your approval for the following described property, My wife and two small children with seventeen negroes, and all of my farming stock are on the coast of Texas in the vicinity of Matagorda bay, also eighteen negroes with farm and stock belonging to my brothers two nieces, both minors, are in my words, the former is in the army of the Confederate States, and has been for eighteen months, the latter is a child, the overseer left in charge of the negroes of my words is conscripted in the army, by the late conscription, which leaves my wife in charge of (35) thirty five slaves, on two farms, distant twenty miles, from each other, the negroes in this condition are of but little use to their masters, or the country, and to the power of the Country equally dangerous, And should the Federal Army make the attack, under the Decree of their Corporations, which is now considered imminent, and to some extent already true, all that I have, and that of Mrs, for which I am under bonds would fall a ready prey to the Guerillas, and my wife subject to insult and insult. I also wish to tender my services from the Staff to the line, as soon as I can remove my effects and family to a place of greater security, I do sorry that these permanent reasons with me compel me to leave your Staff.

Hon Leo W. Randolph.
Secretary of War,

Dear Sir.

In the month of May last I entered the Confederate Army, in the 25th Texas Cavalry, and was appointed, by Col C.C. Gillespie, Assistant Commissary of the Regiment. I gave Bond into the form and manner prescribed by Col G.N. Carter, and the Bond was Deposited with him, and I entered upon the duties of my office, some weeks ago, I received a letter of appointment to the 2nd Officer from you, with a Blank Oath and Bond to be sworn to, and subscribed to, in the presence of a Judge of a Superior Court, the Postmaster of this regiment Capt B.R. Davis; his case is parallell with my own in every particular. We can have the Bonds subscribed by the same, or good securities, but such are our duties in camp, and the distance to where we could find a Judge of a Superior Court, must keep many our securities, who are officers and privates in this regiment, We are willing and anxious to do so, if so required if our former bonds are not valid, or out of form

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the summer of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N.C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but could appear to have been mustered separately. Sir.

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 16th of last month. I received the dispatches from you while at Beaumont in relation to those wagons & teams in the employ of Maj Hart. Capt Nichols sent them to me from Galveston but I never knew they were in Government employ until I learned the fact from you. Before I received this dispatch I had shipped (3) three of the teams over to Nibletts Bluff and they had been loaded with shot & shell and on the road to Rio River 18 or 20 miles from this place, [redacted] presuming that you would allow me to retain them, if you knew the state of the case, I took the liberty to permit them to proceed with the ordnance stores. One of the wagons had been detained in order to look for some of the oxen which had strayed. This one I have sent back to Liberty.

Hoping this explanation will be satisfactory

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company H, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greathery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kilroy's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirov's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864 when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 8th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N.C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Carter's Regiment was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Pendleton's Company was merged into Company E some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 8th Texas Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 1st Battalion (Gillette's Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 7th, 9th and 10th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 3rd and 10th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one full organization, but each appears to have been mounted separately. About April 1, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, were serving in the 3rd and 10th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 25th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company B, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1861 with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. Absent on Sick leave

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company H, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 26th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 4th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company H, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company F, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company F, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had other service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. About April 9, 1865, this portion of this regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated), and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

* This company subsequently became Company F, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 20, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The remainder of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiments Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1862 with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 17th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 4, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the [illegible]th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry was known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 31st Regiment Waters's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry, was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Pendleton's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are reported to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cave's Company C, 3d (Benny's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but seem appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of othe regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Army Records Co. de-tached service

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 6th Texas Cavalry, also known as the 6th Texas Texas Infantry, was a Confederate regiment during the American Civil War. It was organized in Texas and served in the Trans-Mississippi Theater. The regiment was initially formed as the 6th Texas Mounted Volunteers in 1861 with ten companies. It was later reorganized into the 6th Texas Cavalry in 1862. Many members of the regiment had prior service in the Texas Mounted Volunteers or other units. The regiment participated in various campaigns and battles, including the Battle of Arkansas Post, the Vicksburg campaign, and the Red River Campaign. The regiment was also involved in the defense of the Texas coast and the Rio Grande. The regiment was disbanded at the end of the war in 1865.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

In pursuance of the above order from Head Quarters Northern Head Quarters, all of the men of the 21st and 25th Regiments Infantry and Cavalry, who are not on duty with the 17th consolidated Vet Regiment whether of early or late enlistment, must and shall ever Commanding Officer will report for duty by the 25th day of August next or be considered and treated as deserters. They will report to me at Hampshire or to Major E. B. Bedell at Liberty or to Capt B. F. Rose at Jasper or to Lieut Patrick McCann at Savannah or to Lieut P. Dixon at Hornellsville Steuben County or to Lieut King at Sunnyside or to Lieut Kinnicutt at Buckville or to Lieut Whitbeck at Wallaceville or to Lieut McCann at Rock, or to Lieut C. Kingsley at Millican or to Lieut Bratton at Goland or to Lieut Bradley Howard Any officer who fails to report to Hampshire or Liberty. These Officers will proceed in every county where it is practicable leaving the most influential men there to report recruits before proceeding home to Camp. All the other Officers of the 21st & 25th who are not absent duty will report to me immediately and those who are on duty will back to be relieved as soon as possible and report also. Whether relieved soon or not I expect that they will assist in gathering recruits and supplying the Regiments in Genl E. Hunt, Should Conscripts enough not be raised up to the minimum number.

Accompanying this please find orders for the removal of your Regt. in your Brigade. Your Regt will be immediately mounted and equipped for the service required, and you will proceed to the execution of the duties assigned you, with the least possible delay.

You are authorized by the orders of Brig Gen E. Kirby Smith Commdg Trans Miss Dept. as transmitted by Maj J. A. Thomas, Comdt Conscription District Texas. To take and enroll in the 23rd Texas Cavalry, as enlisted men, every man liable to conscription who may join you taking care to have him reported to the Enrolling Officer of his County, and enrolled on his books with the Regiment, and Arm of the Command to which he is assigned, and of the order of Gen Smith under which he is to be assigned to Col Gillespie Col Commdg

Have this instruction Endorsed with the orders at once. Get as many as you can to "Volunteer" as it were. Of which the better for their Regt. benefit. Shoot them if they are arrested. Use force if necessary. The Enemy keeps a small force of Yanks at home will guard you. Put on your best every man liable to duty, bring him, and satisfy him with the Necessary orders. Also send orders to every Regt or Officers, whom you may wish to find out-side places unperformed for. Act promptly, you shall soon fall. I hope. With Esteem

Major;

I received an order, yesterday, from District Hd Quarters, through Gen. Bee, assigning me to the command at the mouth of Galveston, consisting of Ward's Region, the 2nd Texas Infantry, and Brown's Regiment of Cavalry. By a combination of unforeseen circumstances, among them the straying of my horses, I shall be delayed a few days in getting to the command. I hope this will be unimportant, as Col. Isobel Smith remains awhile to superintend the erection of certain defenses. I should be glad if his Capt. Genl were ordered to report to me, at least temporarily. I should be happy, also, to have Lieut Hart, now at Columbia, in charge of the guns at the fort.

I have the honor herewith to forward monthly returns of my command stationed at this Camp. In addition to the companies here accounted for, Capt Gaido's Co. heretofore stationed at Velasco has been ordered to Camp for dismounted duty and is expected daily. It is my intention, I have four companies on duty at this camp under Major Montgomery and Capt Singletary. The 32nd Cavalry Dismounted has been ordered repeatedly to relieve them and order them to me but has not done so as yet. I have now in camp a command of 25 or 30 men in the 9th Brigade Dismounted Cavalry (now Harrison's) commanded by Lieut Thompson now on sick furlough by seniority to it is Captain's Co. I may Regt. I respectfully submit that they should be ordered to report to me as they properly belong to this command, and are borne on my rolls. Four of the companies now in camp were made by consolidating eight into four I trust that by next muster some of the companies will be filled up to the minimum number of men and officers and recruits, there now belonging to my command, in order to make available companies in the field. I attach to my report a list of companies in the

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company K, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Mr. Benjamin Grady
[redacted] Longfellow Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Grady:

Reference is made to your personal request of 8 October 1952 for the military records of James H. Flynn and B. F. Grady, Confederate States Army.

The records show that B. F. Grady, a private and sergeant of Company K, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry, Confederate States Army, enlisted 2 May 1862 at Huntsville, Texas, aged 20 years. The company muster roll for March and April 1864, latest on file, shows him present.

Union prisoner of war records show that he was captured 11 January 1863 at Arkansas Post, Arkansas and imprisoned at Camp Butler, Illinois, from which he was transferred for exchange. Received at City Point, Virginia, 19 April 1863, by the Confederate Agent for Exchange.

His name also appears on a list of prisoners of war who were in hospital at Raleigh, North Carolina, 13 April 1865, when the city was captured. No later record of him has been found.

This collection of records is by no means complete, and failure to find the entire record of Confederate military service does not indicate necessarily that an individual did not serve at some period not covered by the records.

Sincerely yours,

Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment, Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of the regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

* This company subsequently became Company I, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 17th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company B, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. *This company subsequently became Company A, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months' Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been answered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Broadfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when other parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, that portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 17th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, and consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 8, 1865, the portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of this regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company A, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

*This company subsequently became Company D, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company B, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 20, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Companies C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 20, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.
